LABOUR DECLARES WAR ON BRITAIN

THE NATION WRECKERS

PARLIAMENT has finally admitted that, due to its programme of mass immigration, we British will soon be outnumbered in our own country. For years governments have falsified the immigrant figures to prevent the public from becoming alarmed. Throughout Europe, foreign arrivals have been counted individually. Our sneaky governments have been counting a whole family as just one application. Also, once immigrants have been here for five years, they are no longer considered by the government to be immigrants. We cannot estimate how many foreigners come here to visit and then just go into hiding, and stay on. Conveniently the government has no desire to find out.

During the past decade, spurred on by lack of visible opposition, Socialists have accelerated their attacks on us, the British, our freedoms and our way of life. Our enemies have been allowed to get away with undermining British citizenship and declaring St George and the word English to be racist. They have now gone one stage further: Jack Straw's Home Office has commissioned a number of extreme left-wing groups to prepare a report which will be used for further attacks on us. The misleading name "Runnymede Trust" has been used by those carrying out the project. The findings published also stated that British history should be re-written and that the word 'British' is racist and should not be used. This report, instigated by the Home Secretary, Jack Straw is uncomfortably similar to the remarks he made recently, when he said that "we must dump the baggage of Empire". Leftist race-mixers added that it is a pity that Prince Charles did not marry a black girl. Needless to say they would like every white European to cohabit with a black. It has always been the aim of communists to get rid of the white race.

Tony Blair's official spokesman, Alistair Campbell, defended the Runnymede Trust report which called for Britain to rename itself a multicultural society. To put it bluntly, this would mean that this island is no longer Britain and that the British will have no homelands or even exist as a nation. Labour have made it clear for many years that they want to raise the red flag over our country. We, the British, have been the obvious obstacle to their plan, so they are trying to overrun us and defeat us any way they can.

A follow-up EU dossier on immigration into Europe "calls for a clear commitment to promoting multi-racial societies". An all-white Europe run by Europeans would not be allowed. This seems strange, for the people and organisations demanding this, are the same ones who engineered our departure from our African and Asian colonies, claiming that it was only right that these people should be left on their own to run their own countries. Could the answer be found in Communist plans which sought to eradicate the white race and destroy Christian, European civilisation? If this is not not war then what is it? The Socialists are a far more formidable foe than either Hitler or Napolean. If we had lost against either of those at least we would still have remained a nation with a homeland.

We all know that the vast majority of people arriving here are not genuine asylum-seekers. Ministers claim that we need to let in an extra 100,000 migrants each year to fill hi-tech jobs. There is no evidence to indicate that we need extra staff, in fact employment figures show few vacancies in computer programming. Our only shortage is of white children. Since Labour has come to power the gap between the rich and poor has widened dramatically. With the huge rise in the cost of living brought about by this government, many of our youngsters have decided that they simply cannot afford to get married and have children. This is a disgraceful state of affairs, but one which the government finds very convenient.

Labour's ideal new Britain: North London, February 2001.

SOCIALIST SUBJUGATION

WE ALL KNOW that new Labour is playing a cat-and-mouse game to sign Britain's freedoms away to the EU. When the public is suspicious and angry they back off, only to return and try to catch us off guard, so that they can carry out their treacherous deeds.

The public are rightly wary. There are many disturbing similarities between the new socialist European Union and the old Soviet Union. This should not be surprising for both have been devised and created by the Same groups.

Like the Soviets, we are being asked to give up our national sovereignty to become part of a bloc. In Britain we are finding to our cost that damaging laws can be forced upon us over which we have no control, just as they were in the old Soviet Union. The similarity does not end there: we have had numerous new laws introduced which curtail our freedom and free speech. Surveillance equipment has been installed everywhere, and our telephone conversations are monitored and recorded to a degree the public would refuse to accept if they should become aware of it. Already, we have become too subservient to the central state. Brussels is the new Kremlin.

Plans for a Euro army and police force are already well under way. When we signed the Treaty of Rome, we gave permission for EEC troops to police our country should the need arise. Therefore, if we were to decide to get on the streets and demonstrate, we could find French, German and Italian tanks confronting us. We all remember how the Poles, Czechs and Hungarians were crushed by Russian tanks, when they tried an uprising. See already how keen Blair and Straw have been to use the army against the fuel protestors. The use of EU troops for such an excersise would soon become a clear option.

The Soviet peoples, mainly peasants, were tricked into a Communist takeover. There is no excuse for us falling into a similar trap. Every country in the EU has become progressively more like a police-state. Recently Eurocrats declared that they would like to make opposition to the EU a criminal offence. In Germany they have reached the point where they are considering banning political parties. This is all a clear warning of things to come if we do not get out now.

SUCCESSFUL A.G.M.

STOP PRESS

ON Saturday 17th February the National Front held its Annual General Meeting at a stylish venue in the West Midlands.

Birmingham Branch has been very active throughout the year. Their efforts paid off and they were awarded the Branch Efficiency Cup. Two members who have given outstanding service to the party are John Cosier from Birmingham and Mick Shore from Leicester. They were jointly presented with the Albert Mariner award.

There was a collection which raised nearly £1,000. The meeting was rounded-off by a speech from our new Chairman, Tom Holmes. Tom had previously been Deputy Chairman. He was elected by the Directorate last year, replacing John McCauley, who has stepped down. There was an air of enthusiasm throughout the meeting, which everyone seems to have enjoyed. a more detailed report will appear in the next edition.

EDITORIAL — Issue 14

Labour: Destroyers of Civilisation

WITHIN days of the outrageous attacks on our nation, ludicrous EU policies which were designed to destroy civilisation were eagerly adopted by New Labour and the Socialist fifth column operating in Whitehall. Under new laws, foreign terrorist groups will be allowed to remain here, at our expense. Paeodophiles will not be prevented from having access to children, (because we are told it infringes on their freedom), likewise drug pushers cannot have their lethal stocks confiscated. Cherie Blair and her left-wing lawyer friends have even set up new chambers in order to receive public funds to represent social outcasts. As for the decent law-abiding citizens, they can expect to be threatened with jail, should they contest the problems arising. None of these proposals put forward by the EU need to have been taken seriously. A decent government would have rejected such dangerous folly.

England's crime rate has already been compared to that of Los Angeles. Certainly, crime in Britain is at an unacceptable level. The well-proven rules needed to maintain law, order and discipline have been discarded by our politicians. They have ridden rough-shod over the public, refusing to even acknowledge criticism. It is generally agreed that cosmopolitan, liberal and socialist policy has been responsible for making Amsterdam the "city of sin". Surely we are not going to allow appalling crime to become a permanent aspect of England. An end to socialist and liberal policies are the only answer.

Tony Blair's plan to cut the age of consent for homosexual sex from 18 to 16 was rejected by the House of Lords for the third time. The Prime Minister has now used powers normally reserved only for emergency requirements to push through this immoral, dangerous and unwanted policy. Already leftists are trying to lower the age even further, to 14. Why are New Labour so determined to introduce our young boys to the horrors of sodomy, buggery and the risk of AIDS? Certainly there are a high percentage of perverts within the Labour and Liberal parties. More than this, however, it is another part of the Socialist plan to create havoc in the community. Socialists aim to make life under what appears to be the old Christian, European system so wretched and insufferable that we will accept socialism as a way out. Of course, we are not supposed to notice that it is members of the extreme left who are responsible for the problems we suffer.

We have always clearly taught our young children rules, discipline and accepted codes of behaviour. Liberals and Socialists have chosen to relax such elementary teachings. This has resulted in a steep increase in theft, assault and general bad behaviour. The rules that have been made to create harmony and well-being in our country are being discarded. Regularly television programmes are made where the chairman, usually a left-wing socialist, discusses with an audience of fellow socialists and immigrants, ways in which we should re-develop our social structure. What we want back is the old structure that worked, not more of the socialist claptrap that is wrecking our country.

The Socialists and cosmopolitans who monopolise the art and entertainment industry often use their position to undermine western civilisation, there has been a general dumbing-down of standards. Casual sex, violence and people behaving in an uncouth and thoughtless manner are too often shown as something fit for the young to aspire to. Despite denials by those producing this material, we can see for ourselves how a change in national behaviour has occurred.

In recent years in the search for new art, novelty trash has been exalted while the worthy has largely been ignored. The popular music offered to the young also contains material much of which is foreign in nature, disharmonious and rebellious.

GETTING THE MESSAGE

Left: Claudia Schiffer in a film of inter-racial sex. A story of rich, white kids adoring black music. The film opens with two white girls making love to a black youth.

NATIONAL FRONT REMEMBRANCE DAY PARADE

THE well-disciplined and orderly conduct of members and supporters taking part in the annual National Front Remembrance Day parade in London last November was a major contribution towards making this event one of the most successful of recent years.

Marching off from Victoria, the parade was witnessed by many people some of whom, far from showing any signs of disapproval, openly displayed support and encouragement. The only opposition, for what it amounted to, came from a handful of neo-Marxists, Sinn Fein supporters, homosexuals and other social malignants calling themselves the 'Anti-Nazi League', screaming all the now-familiar but well-worn Communist parrot phrases while being all the more infuriated at NF members dismissing them with contempt rather than being provoked into a slanging match.

Around four or five of these 'anti-Nazis' had managed to reach the Cenotaph and, until being warned by the police to shut up, caused offence to many bystanders by keeping up a tirade of abuse even whilst two minutes silence was being observed. This came as no surprise, however, as there could have been little doubt that most if not all of this rabble were, in all probability, part of the mob which on May Day last year rampaged through Whitehall vandalising the Cenotaph and other memorials to the war dead while inflicting hundreds of thousands of pounds worth of wilful damage on public and private property during a so-called 'demonstration against capitalism'.

Word was that London Mayor Ken Livingstone had tried to have the NF banned from holding this march, no surprise there either, as Red Ken and his far-Left cronies have always been well known for their hatred of anything associated with being British – remember him saying that the Army should be replaced with a "workers militia"! But unfortunately for Comrade Ken and his clique the authorities not only permitted the parade to take place, but follow it's accustomed route.

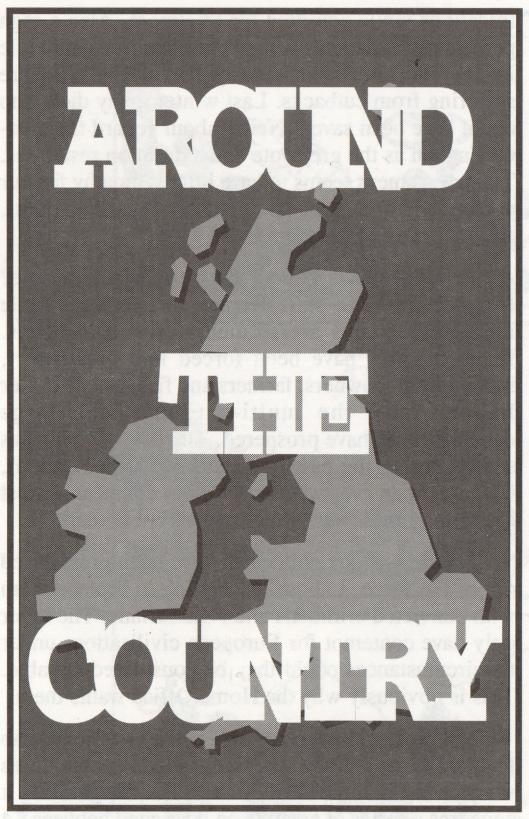
Throughout the whole event, from the meeting point in Bermondsey to the venue for a social in SE London at the end of the day, the NF was accompanied by a heavy police presence. Why it should have been thought necessary to divert such a large number of police from normal and possibly more pressing duties is difficult to understand as, apart from impotent opposition from a few Reds in Parliament Square, no hostility was ever forthcoming from the general public. Nonetheless, a co-operative and friendly relationship between the NF and the forces of law and order prevailed at all times.

There are those, fortunately only a very few, who would like to see Remembrance Day done away with altogether, believing that such 'nationalistic jingoism' should have no place in today's modern and 'multi-ethnic' Britain. Doubtless, it is also a constant and uncomfortable reminder of how the sacrifice of two war generations has, and continues to be, betrayed by politicians hell-bent upon eliminating almost every vestige of our nationhood and national identity.

Over the centuries, and not least in two world wars, millions of Britons have fought and died in defence of our nation and all it stands for and, no matter what the future may hold or whatever may be forthcoming, we will continue to honour our war dead and eventually atone their sacrifice.

APPEAL

IN 1914, and again in 1939, Britons risked their lives in defence of our country. Today we find ourselves in the most serious position that we have ever been in, throughout our over-2000-year history. We are hoping to field several candidates in the forthcoming elections. Our party is now more active on the streets than it has been for many years. The time that has been devoted to making our presence felt nationally has unfortunately resulted in fewer meetings. This has meant fewer collections. In order to contest these elections we need money. Our parents and grandparents offered the ultimate sacrifice – all we are requesting is a reasonable donation towards party funds. We will probably not get another such opportunity for another five years. Just think how much more damage a Labour government could do in that time. Please give generously. See the top of this page for our address.



HOME COUNTIES ANTI 'ASYLUM-SEEKER' CAMPAIGN

FOR the last few months feeling has been running high in the villages of Clapham and Milton Earnest, just outside Bedford, over plans to billet a large number of asylum seekers in a nearby specially-prepared centre.

As well as the traumatic effect such a large number of aliens could have upon the local community there is also a fear that, as in Kent, a heavy influx of such people into Bedfordshire could lead to yet another big increase in the council tax, the level of which is now one of the highest in the country.

Therefore, the Dunstable Tudor Theme Day last November could not have been a more appropriate occasion for Home Counties NF to kick-off it's anti-asylum seeker campaign.

Although not as many members as had been hoped for were able to turn up a large number of leaflets were, nonetheless, circulated around the Quadrant and Dunstable Square shopping areas.

As the 'opposition' did not know of this activity there was no contingent of 'outraged local workers' turning up in protest. In fact, no hostility of any kind was forthcoming from the many people in town that Saturday for the festival. We intend to be back in the very near future – with or without the Reds.

The following Saturday local members also distributed leaflets in Hemel Hempstead shopping centre calling for action against the influx of 'refugees' and, as in Dunstable, there was no trouble from the many people in the area, which is hardly surprising when taking account the growing strength of public feeling over this virtually unrestricted invasion of our already densely-populated island.

There are already three thousand unemployed in Luton alone and this figure could well be doubled when Vauxhall ceases car production next year with the loss of two thousand jobs. Also many more job losses are expected among local component suppliers, such as Dunstable based Delco and BTR which are scheduled to close within the next two years throwing almost another thousand people out of work.

And as Bedfordshire is now well on the way to becoming an unemployment blackspot, the detrimental effect upon the local economy makes it all the more essential that 'asylum seekers' (of which Luton already has a large quota) be kept out.

"Stand by your own"

by John Cosier, NF West Midlands Regional Organiser

ULSTER is an integral part of Great Britain, yet the mere mention of the place to the "average" Briton would either produce an identifiable disinterest or provoke an impatient dismissal. The reason being that our people have been programmed by the System-controlled media to react in that fashion and it's a response that the enemies of Ulster encourage and welcome. I can well understand the bewilderment and despair of those outside the Province seeing and hearing only bad news throughout the years, though I hope they will try to understand that the people their not only have to see and hear this bad news, they have to live with it on a daily basis!

Ulster has many good and true friends, but the truth, if it were told, is that it has been largely through their own efforts that they have been kept informed of developments and situations in Ulster. So intense has been the battle between them and the IRA and the Republican elements, that they have neglected that essential feature of any campaign, which is to inform the wider audience of the justice and rightness of their cause.

The leadership of the National Front has agreed on an approach that will go some way to remedy this situation. The people of Great Britain will hear much more of Ulster's message in the months to come than ever before. Historically, Ulster has not only been a member of the British family of nations, but has also been the mainland's closest friend. The Republic has not! The best test of friendship comes when one's friend is in need, and requires help. Wherever Britain has been in peril, Loyal Ulster has stood firmly by her and Ulstermen in their tens o thousands have paid the ultimate price.

During the First World War, the founding fathers of the Republic used Britain's extremity as their opportunity to stage a rebellion and break the union with Britain. Ulster had recruited an army of volunteers to defend herself against the Republican attempt to take the whole of Ireland out of the United Kingdom. Instead, Ulstermen left for the battlefields of Europe and stood shoulder to shoulder with Britain. In one day 5,000 Ulstermen died in the Battle of the Somme in 1916. The courage of the Ulstermen in that battle won them many friends. The words from a General at the Battle of the Somme read, "I am not an Ulsterman, but yesterday as I followed their amazing attack, I felt that I would rather be an Ulsterman than anything else in the world."

The National Front has never forgotten the sacrifice made throughout the years by the Loyalists of Ulster, and never will. We urge all British patriots to stand by Loyal Ulster in its hour of need, as they have done, so many times for us. Their only "crime" is loyalty!

LABOUR'S OUTRAGEOUS ANTICS

✶ In order to rush through contemptible legislation "New Labour" has attempted to eliminate legitimate opposition. The House of Lords has, on several occasions, saved the public from socialist devilment. Now Labour has attempted to recreate the House of Lords in its own image. They banished many of the old aristocratic peers and replaced them with Labour cronies. Even so, the government suffered a defeat in promoting gay propaganda in schools. This despite 30 new Blairite Lords. Despite this defeat, the Home Office unveiled plans to allow homosexuals to have sex in public toilets. This piece of disgusting legislation would allow homosexuals to cruise for partners in parks and other public places. Anyone at any time could come across couples or groups engaged in indecent activity, including buggery. This piece of subversive depravity was announced only days after the government was defeated in the Lords and by a vociferous campaign by moralists. The European Court of Human Rights are expected to back up the government very soon in this debauchery.

✶ A growing revolt over this unacceptable legislation has resulted in Surrey and Kent County Councils taking a stand against homosexual teaching in their schools. It is not only the homosexuals in the Labour government who are hell-bent on promoting all this: the Liberals and gay-front organisations played their part. John Prescott and Mo Mowlam were among the politicians expected at the Lesbian and Gay Pride celebrations. The Queen was compromised into a position of having to make a statement on the event. She said she hoped they would have an enjoyable and happy event – which was about all that she could say when put in such an embarrassing position. Only this damn government would have the cheek to get the Queen involved. Of course the other advantage for Labour is that those who can be convinced that they are lesbian or gay will not be having any children, thus keeping the white birth rate down.

✶ Abdul Tahid, a paeodophile, was jailed for 2 years for abducting 2 boys. He was released after serving only seven months of his sentence. Five weeks later he assaulted a 10-year-old boy in a cemetry, an offence to which he pleaded guilty. After so many recent heartbreaking stories of child assault and murder, Tahid's early release should be viewed as a criminal offence.

✶ Henry Cooper has been on television recently advising the elderly to get a flu-jab, another epidemic is on the way. What has the government done since last winter's pitiful scenes of patients left on trolleys for hours on end, caused by a severe shortage of beds and staff? This winter the NHS will have 4,000 fewer beds and 20 less intensive-care rooms. Hospital chiefs believe that a flu epidemic could claim even more lives than the 20,000 who died last year. The NHS is only carrying on at the moment by overworking the staff: doctors are working on average 15 hours a week free overtime every week. Despite Labour's election pledge of saving hospitals, many have closed.

✶ More families are living in poverty since Labour came to power and the situation is getting steadily worse. Labour's claim that they were lifting children out of poverty was proved to be false when figures released show that families living in poverty went up by 300,000 between 1998 and 1999.(These are predominately white Britons and not immigrants.) The figure, currently of 11 million with below-half-average earnings, is subsantially up on the figure of 10.5 million when Labour came to power. These figures could he dramatically reduced by a National Front government who would give first consideration to the needs of our own people.

✶ Oseney Court old people's home in Oxford was closed by the Council, who claimed that they did not have enough money to keep it open. However money has been found to re-open it and house 46 asylum seekers therewith an added cost of £240 per day for extra security staff. Social services boss, Mary Robertson insisted on explaining her decision from behind closed doors.

✶ Immigration Minister, Barbara Roche had even more explaining to do when it came to light that 400 asylum seekers at Oakington camp in Cambridgeshire,ar costing nearly £3,000 per week, per person. This is dearer than the Ritz hotel.

✶ The chances of a bright child from the working class getting to university are still pretty slim; only 2.9 per cent of those attending come from such a background. The situation is not improving: there has only been a .46% increase since 1994. However, the communists who control most universities have fallen over themselves in assisting foreigners. The number of Africans at university has risen by 40% since 1994 and Asians have increased by 53% in the same period.

✶ New plans unveiled by the Home Secretary, Jack Straw, will allow asylum-seekers whose claims have been rejected to appeal on the grounds of racial discrimination. As we know, any claim of racial discrimination is likely to be upheld, and compensation awarded for being discriminated against. This new innovation will ensure that virtually every arrival will be allowed to stay unless, of course, he happens to be a white person. By mid-December it had been established that at least one million foreigners have entered our country this year. The government is obviously trying to get even more in next year.

✶ The socialists have removed most of British History from the school curriculum. We now have a situation where a child arriving from Somalia or Kosovo will have as much knowledge of English history as our own children, and that is very little. We can however, be sure that the immigrants will have a full understanding of their own religion, history and culture. Our teachers will predictably embrace and give lessons on foreign anthropology while ignoring or denigrating our own.

✶ Tony Blair showed a lack of respect toward our Battle of Britain heroes after he refused to attend a commemorative service at Westminster Abbey. Two thousand people, including over 100 Battle of Britain veterans, filled the Abbey. The Prime Minister was sent an invitation,but it seems that he did no even bother to reply.

✶ Home Secretary Jack Straw is to have his M15 file destroyed. Peter Mandelson's is due to go in 2008. What a pity they are not being made public. Come to think of it, why are they still not under supervision?

✶ Chancellor Gordon Brown sold another 25 tons of Britain's gold reserves in order to help prop up the ailing euro. He made a huge financial loss, and all was to no avail. His main aim was to drag us further into the Eurostate.

✶ In Coventry, teachers have recently told their pupils who were entering a painting competition. "Make sure you include some black faces, otherwise you will not win." For years, teachers have been deliberately pairing off black boys with white girls. Television and cinema also have been used to send out the insidious message of inter-racial relationships. As a recognition of service to socialism, New Labour is offering teachers free home loans. Guess who will be picking up the bill? That's right, the much abused British public.

✶ In July the Bishop of Winchester felt the need to castigate the government for not upholding the institution of marriage. Michael Scott-Joynt argued that the Government has made an "explicit denial of any responsibility to support marriage", and its attitude to those who try to promote marriage is "dismissive". Jack Straw's green paper said that the government should not try to make people marry or penalise those who chose not to. He added that to try to do so would be wrong because it was interfering in peoples lives. The government clearly gives equal status to unmarried couples or even to homosexuals living together. Such views would give to the young the impression that marriage was irrelevent. This clearly is the message that Labour wants to put across to the younger generations.

✶ There have been numerous reports during the last eighteen months of elderly patients dying in hospital due more to neglect than to their medical condition. Dr Rita Pal claimed that colleagues have left elderly patients to die. She's blown the whistle in order to achieve some improvement.

✶ Instead she has received hate mail and suffered a tirade of abuse. The doctor says "I cannot continue to live in Britain. I cannot find work and my life has been made impossible". She is going to America,where she says "You can criticise there without being condemned and ostracised." Dr Pal reveals how some doctors have written "Do not resuscitate" on elderly patient's notes. Dr Pal, who was born in Britain, has tried to join the bar but a judge told her "go back to your own country". Other barristers have told her she would not get a job. "They called me anti-establishment" she said.

✶ Bogus asylum seekers are inventing ficticious injuries in order to avoid deportation. Consultant orthopaedic specialists said that young male asylum seekers were "clogging up the clinics, complaining of severe pain and becoming disgruntled when nothing could be found wrong with them. These alien time-wasters are preventing genuine patients from being seen. Many are pensioners who have waited a year or more to get treatment for ailments, such as hip replacement.

✶ Kosovan gangs have been arrested in connection with a sword fight in a busy shopping centre in Swindon. The East Europeans attacked each other with a sword, knives and a metal bar.

✶ Last Easter Birmingham council gave the go ahead to the towns Muslims and agreed to let them hold a religious ceremony in the town centre. Traditionally Christians have held their Easter service there on that day. The Council chose to ingratiate itself with the immigrants and snub the English Christians, who had to do with second best.

✶ Birmingham Labour councillors have voted to rename Balsall Heath, a historic area of Birmingham, Apna Town. Apna Town is Punjabi for our town. This is an audacious imposition. Balsall Heath is part of Birmingham in the UK. If Labour councillors Went to see Indian Place names,let them go and live in India.

✶ Asup Saribal, a Turkish waiter murdered his English girlfriend in Turkey. He is due to face the murder charge in his homeland. The Home Office are fully aware of the circumstances but have done nothing toward his extradition. He has since applied for political asylum, by claiming to be a Kurd associated with the PKK terrorist group outlawed in Turkey. He murdered a British citizen, he should be put in handcuffs and handed over to the Turkish authorities. It is clear that the Labour controlled Home Office have no intention of doing the right thing.

✶ A Colombian convicted thug suffering from AIDS used the new human rights laws to overcome his deportation from Britain. A high court judge said that British law had been overruled by EU law. The Colombian claimed it was his right to have a family life hereunder the convention. The fact that he was jailed for assault, drink driving and drug possession was not raised. His AIDS condition will also continue to he treated on the NHS. As for a family he is not married and is separated from his common law wife. It is believed that she too will apply for asylum.

✶ New Labour wastes countless billions of pounds on extravagent white elephants and their pet project, the EC. The EC extorts from us approximately a net £12,000,000,000 a year. The new Euro HQ at Strasbourg in France, a £270 million project, has proved a disaster in design. It was initially branded a hopeless maze. It has 1,113 offices, 110 meeting rooms, six bars, six restaurants, and the poor Eurocrats kept getting lost and have been unable to find their way around. You would not credit it, but our Euro-Masters, who consider themselves wise in everything and think that they should control everybody's life, created a building that has recorded a high level of asbestos. The building is unsuitable and the Euro MP's have called for it to be shut down for good. Taxpayers were expected to fork out £13.5 million a year for this white elephant. To make matters worse, MEP's intended to use the new building for only 60 days a year.The rest of the time they are in their palatial £640 million HQ in Brussels. Both centres in operation would mean an extra tax burden of £120 million a year.

✶ The incompetents at Euroland printed their own Micky Mouse Euromoney without a metallic square security mark. This would have left the notes easy to copy even on basic equipment. The whole £200 million pounds worth of notes will have to be made again.

✶ The Ministry of Defence face paying out millions of pounds in compensation to lesbians and homosexuals due to interference by the European Court of Human Rights. Four who took their case to court received £400,000 in damages and costs. There are at least 85 more claims registered. With so much public money up for grabs, who knows how many will jump on the bandwaggon. This problem stems from the court in Strasbourg who ruled last year that our gay ban in the forces is illegal, The M.O.D. is offering £10,000 – a more than generous offer – to each of those sacked. Lustig-Preen from London received £144,000. Navy engineer John Beckett won £89,000. Jeanette Smith £94,000 and a R.A.F. Sergeant £75,000. If Labour were not so pro-European, we could tell the European Court to get lost.

✶ The liberal sex lobby has been responsible for the appalling rise in teenage pregnancy and the crime of rape (often leading to murder). Perverts and Paedophiles now roam our streets seeking to gratify themselves at any opportunity. The Christian Institute think-tank has produced evidence that homosexuals are 100 times more likely than other men to sexually abuse children. The findings are based on research published by the Home Office. Around a quarter of child abuse is "homosexual in nature", and another ten per cent involves some element of homosexual behaviour.

✶ Our so-called Socialist Government seems to have no social conscience. New Labour, a party that seems to know little about anything, started a campaign to trivialise drugs. Mo Mowlam started the debate by admitting that she once tried drugs. Other colleagues soon followed suit. They all downplayed the seriousness of drugs. Keith Hellawell has claimed that smoking cannabis does not lead to hard drug abuse. Heroin addicts and junkies from all over the country have dismissed Mr Hellawells claims. Cannabis is an introduction to drugs. One addict put it quite clearly. "Not everyone who takes cannabis goes on to take heroin. But you can bet that every heroin addict started out with cannabis." Another put it this way, "No one starts out on hard drugs first but, once you have been initiated, experimenting can easily follow. Many youngsters have died from their first encounter with drugs,while others have had their health and lives ruined by them over a long period. The last thing we need is for the government to be seen to give the okay to drug abuse.

✶ Tony Blair recently admitted that he has starved the NHS of cash. Only now with an election looming is slightly more to be made available. Our hospitals have fallen even further into decay. Doctors are working overtime, often without pay in order to try and make the NHS work. Severe shortages, lack of cleanliness and hygiene, are making matters even worse. 5,000 patients have died recently each year from hospital super bugs. In total 100,000 patients picked up infections while admitted for treatment. Also a high percentage of patients wounds became infected while in hospital. It is particularly the eldery who are suffering from cutbacks. Last winter many died who could have been saved. New Labour regard the over-60 English as the grey vote and a drain on resources. The government seems to have little sympathy for our parents and grandparents, who they regard as racist, nationalistic and anti-Euro.

✶ In what way is Labour the party of the people? Our homeless are still sleeping in doorways while illegal immigrants are swanning around in hotels. Many families have been forced into bankruptcy, including shopowners, farmers and fishermen. Under Labour only the multi-nationals and large conglomerates have prospered. The cost of living has soared during the past five years (25% in London), but more than ever we are having to compete against cheap foreign labour, not only here but abroad.

✶ The best of our policemen have been pressurised out of the force. Labour are hoping to replace them with convicted criminals and Rastafarians. The latter only have contempt for European civilisation, under no circumstances could they be considered suitable. This is obviously why the Home Office wants them.

✶ Martin Locklin, a top Labour Party official who featured in the TV documentary "Tony's People", was sent for trial on a string of child sex allegations. It concerns a series of assaults on boys aged between 14 and 16. The 40-year-old, who worked with the Prime Minister in his Sedgefield constituence, denies the charge.

✶ Terry Power, a Labour councillor, was arrested by police after a paeodophile video was allegedly discovered at his home. Ex-school governer Power,who works for Barking and Dagenham Council, went into hiding after being bailed to re-appear in court.

✶ Kelvin Jones the man in charge of running the magistrates courts in Newton Aycliffe and Darlington has resigned after being accused of gross indecency. Mr Jones a former solicitor, was mayor of Newton in Powys, Wales between 1991 and 1992. He was also responsible for running Bishop Auckland magistrates court. Police arrested Mr Jones, along with another man in a lay-by. A police spokesman said "A 44 year-old-man has been arrested on suspicion of an act of gross indecency with another man." Our lives seem to be completely dominated by socialists, liberals and solicitors. This ever increasing daisy-chain of manipulators seems to contain a very high percentage of members with a bent for gross indecent practice.

✶ Greg Dyke,the new BBC Director General has a disturbingly close relationship with New Labour. He donated over £50,000 to the party and stood as a Labour candidate. He made an extraordinary attack on his own broadcasting corporation, by branding it "hideously white." Nice to know that the man in charge of the national television network thinks that we white Britons are hideous. He now intends to make the BBC even more politically correct,by dramatically increasing the percentage of ethnics in the workforce. Since he took over,a year ago the programme quality has deteriorated even more rapidly. It seems that improving the programmes does not come into his political agenda.

✶ The government was asked to send someone unbiased to mediate between the Israelis and Palistinians. They chose Lord Levy, Tony Blair's close friend, fund raiser and the man believed to have been the creator of New Labour. Levy has for some time been the government's envoy to the Middle East. A Palistinian official said "President Arafat was courteous, but it was unwise of the British government to send Levy, bearing in mind his links with the Israeli government." Lord Levy did much to get the former Israeli PM Ehud Barak elected. He has a home in Israel. His son works for the Israeli government, both for the Prime Minister and Justice Minister. Daughter Juliet also works for a charity there. As we have seen on other occassions, our government has a strange idea of what unbiased and fair play means.

✶ The Labour Party has made it clear that they do not want white Rhodesians/Zimbabweans allowed into our country. They have however lured black Zimbabweans here who are HIV positive, to work in our hospitals. There are many reasons why this should not have happened. Firstly we should be paying the rate for the job and employing British nurses, then there is the obvious risk of spreading the HIV virus. To treat their condition the drugs required can cost up to £10,000 per year. It is also likely that they will end up not being able to work and will have to be kept at our expense. We also have to consider the fact that one in four young people in Zimbabwe are infected with the Aids virus. This African country has its own impoverished health system and is desperately short of nurses and medical staff. It cannot be right to poach workers from there.

✶ The mystery donor to Labour Party funds turned out to be Mr Hamburger, alias Paul Hamlyn. He is a close friend of Rupert Murdoch.

✶ You will remember that we were against the bombing of Yugoslavia and the use of uranium tipped shells. It was obvious that the uranium dust would become a serious health hazard. The Ministry of Defence in their routine manner are trying to whitewash over the problem. Tony Blair, Bill Clinton, George Robertson and Madeline Albright set themselves up as the great moralists. In truth they were worse than the people that they were attacking.

This brilliant cartoon first appeared in 1978. Then the coloured population of the Third World was increasing by 2.6 per cent every year, and the white population was static. Since that time,the figures have become even more alarming, and the growing number of whites cohabiting with non-whites producing coloured children, further adds to our problems. Abortion on demand, vasectomies, the pill and an increase in homosexual behaviour, have a11 worked to further our demise: weight of numbers equals political power. Even in Europe the odds are being stacked against the white man.

FREEBIE HOLIDAYS!

BUT ONLY IF YOU ARE QUEER!

By Mike Shore, Leicestershire NF.

NEWS has just broken the National Health Service is funding a Birmingham-based organisation called Healthy Gay Life in their new initiative of sending homosexuals and others who feel unsure of their sexual orientation on free holidays to "help them discover themselves".

Cottages in the picturesque village of Libanus, set in the Brecon Beacons, Wales and have recently been booked-up for around 20 gay men, much to the disgust of local residents in the area.

Project organiser David Iles says, "this project is a very worthy cause indeed. It will allow young men to discover their sexuality in a safe and understanding environment, where advice and counselling services will also be readily available". He then goes on to add, "free condoms will be available to all who attended the free holidays, because we want to promote safe sex".

Local people from the nearby town of Brecon were understandably outraged, especially as they had just been told that the maternity wing at the local hospital is to close, due to lack of financial resources.

What we think about this issue: We in the National Front feel absolutely outraged that taxpayers' money can be wasted in this way. How can the NHS justify squandering a valuable financial resources on this type of project, especially at a time when thousands of operations have been cancelled, this year alone, and hospitals keep closing down departments due to lack of financial support? We are witnessing, yet again, the hidden gay agenda of Blair's cronies. First it was prisoners having sex-swap operations paid for by us, the taxpayers; then ongoing campaigns to lower the age of consent for gay sex and the current campaign for legalising gay marriages in Britain. Now we see free holidays for perverts too. Whatever will be next? So much for New Labour's preaching that they were the party of "family values" at at the last election!

We say: Stop pandering to the wants and needs of perverts and sexual deviants and instead start promoting the healthy, heterosexual family unit!

Labour Party's propaganda

Dear Sir,
The asylum seekers are really nice people who are grateful for the meagre handouts that they receive. They are skilled,well behaved and an assett to our society, unlike the English, who are, in the main, uneducated, racist bigots. So goes the Labour Party's propaganda. They must think that we live on another planet. To enforce their topsy-turvey view of events they constantly use the Race Relations Gestapo to act as thought police.

In Gillingham, Kent fierce battles took place between Kosovan, Kurd and Albanian asylum seekers, resulting in the two houses that they had been given getting thoroughly trashed. The two properties rented for them by the Home Office were both left uninhabitable. This is just one of many reports of asylum-seeker violence, trouble and ingratitude.

Unflattering Reference

Dear Sir,
I've just seen a copy of edition No 13 of your publication and, although I cannot claim that I agree with all the contents, I couldn't help noticing a somewhat unflattering reference to a certain Mr Nick Griffin in the letters page.

During the early 1980's, when we were still publishing our magazine in South Afiica itself, we received a letter from a gentleman named Nick Griffin (who was no doubt one and the same person) which was bizarre in the extreme - and which we decided to publish in our issue No 12, more as a joke than anything.

In his letter he first praised us by saying that we were "consistently one of the best Nationalist [sic] publications in the world" but then went on to condemn what he termed the "fantasy of a renewed British Empire" which he said "needed knocking on the head".

If we are to ignore the fact that our magazine was always diametrically opposed to the Nationalists (we supported the HNP at the time, though we subsequently gave our support to the Conservative Party of South Africa, with whom we found ourselves far more ideologically at home), the strangest thing about this letter was that it condemned the very ideal which we basically stood for! Ever since we started publication our main ideological stance has always been that of Neo-Imperialism – ie we have constantly advocated the establishment of a "renewed British Empire", which we first saw as evolving from a White-ruled South Africa, but in view of subsequent developments we now realise must be initiated from within the UK.

For Griffin to praise us so highly in one breath, yet then to condemn our main ideological stance in the next, must prove that he either never read our magazine before commenting – or else he was incapable of comprehending what he read. What an absolute wally!

Yours, for Race and Empire,

Reply to Mr Grant of the S African Patriot

Dear Mr Grant,
The League of Empire Loyalists was the largest body in the formation of the National Front. We looked on with dismay when the union of the White Commonwealth was all but broken. South Africa, Rhodesia, Canada, the UK, Australia and New Zealand have all been isolated and all suffered severely through programmes of communisation and multi-racialism. As you rightly say, the move must be initiated from the UK. However we English must first regain control of England. Most of our fellow countrymen have yet to realise that we have lost control.

There are however,some encouraging signs. The patriotic white man is still kept well away from the television cameras,but in recent months numerous Africans and Asians have been heard sticking up for the positive aspects of the British Empire. The Establishment may be about to have some of their propaganda questioned from an unexpected angle.

We would welcome an article from you on the current situation in South Africa.

Yours sincerely,
Bernard Franklin, Editor.

Enriching Our Culture?

Dear Sir,
The multi-racialists used to say that immigrants enrich our culture. At that time the naive public generally accepted the comment at face value. Over the years we have become aware of the activities of many aliens. These include mugging, drug-dealing, noisy a11-night parties, "steaming", weapon carrying and unjustifiable compensation claiming. Yardies, Triads and foreign terrorists pose a real threat to our society – a danger that has increased due to socialist political correctness being brought to bear an the police force, which is no longer effective. An illegal immigrant, Gabriel Zorafu from Romania, was jailed for having sex with Shetland ponies. He had trussed them up with twine. Judge Mark Dyer said: "You are not a person whose presence is of any benefit to this country." This statement would apply to many millions of immigrants and asylum-seekers who have been foisted upon us. Multi-racialism is destroying our culture, but then that is what the devil's kids had planned.

Farmer's Plight

Dear Sir,
I was watching a TV programme the other day about the plight of farmers in Wales and Cornwall. Good, honest hard-working men and women, who have their hearts in the land. Some of them are working a hundred hours and more a week, whilst facing humiliating debts through no basic fault of their own. In a nutshell, they are living like destitutes. How can this be? How is it that their produce from such hard work cannot sustain them? Such people were once the backbone of the nation but are clearly not respected as such by the government. Perhaps if they were given the millions that went overseas they would be out of trouble now. What is so wrong with helping our industry to the fullest extent? Would it not pay us back? Chucking handfuls of cash at Africa certainly has not. It seems to me that 100 per cent of charity should remain at home when the home boys are in trouble. Why doesn't Bob Geldof have a Red Nose Day for those in England who suffer in silence? I would venture to say there is no political or media mileage to be gained.

We were once called a nation of shopkeepers and we were, but lots more besides. Loads of diverse small businesses, smallholdings, small farms as well as a multitude of shops, sustaining the self-employed and employing others, either directly or indirectly, and of course taking people off the unemployment list. These people were an integral part of the work society, but where are they now? Mostly flying around the internet looking for a fast buck or, in other words, a load of hot air. We have no solid base any more. What about real jobs? I hear that our fishermen are to lose more of theirs because of an EC ruling. Never mind though, they can sit on the shore-line at leisure, with their heaps of redundancy and dole money, watching foreign trawlers in action. Thanks Brussels! I can see a pattern forming and it involves the active financial destruction of good old Blighty, but just wait until they get an official finger in our high-finance wheeler-dealing and then there will be trouble.

In the market town where I have lived for the past 25 years I could take you to a lot of shells that used to be businesses, now defunct for one reason or another. Apparently progress. A majority of it, if not all, will never return but, never mind, we can rest in peace because Tesco and GT Mills sit on the hill above and smile benignly down at us: so that's all right then.

'Hoi Polloi'

Family Life

Dear Sir,
This is a plea to the media moguls and spineless religious leaders who are destroying the family way of life that has sustained and produced million's of what was the most revered, respected and well known breed, the Englishman. The children you inspire, educate and entertain are the adults of tomorrow and you are creating a monstrous beast.

First, to the media: Please stop presenting our children with images of homosexuals and lesbians parading themselves in brightly-coloured clothes accompanied by smiling faces, camp body language and over hyped personalities. Please show our children and teenagers that there is another side to being "gay". Why do you not show us what really happens on the gay scene? The scene where young men are ravaged by sexually transmitted diseases, such as anal warts, anal fissures and worse. Why don't you show us the scene which passes confused young people around and refers to them as "chickens"? There is not a single normal parent in this country that wishes their child to enter the "gay scene", If they deny this, the chances are they either work for the media or their income is from the taxpayer.

Secondly, a plea to the religious leaders: As our spiritual leaders you have failed us at a time when you have been needed most of all. You have not stood up and spoken out against homosexuality, you have not spoken out against lesbianism. You defend the rights of the sinners whilst condemning those that speak and try to live to the word of God. You often talk of empty church's and falling numbers. Whilst you remain silent we will remain away: there is nothing to hear.

From the Internet

THEIR WORLD AND OURS

by Derek Godfrey

IF ALL things are discussed in a frank and rational manner the truth will prevail, and what differentiates ourselves from the many others on the political scene is that we are never afraid of submitting our policies to public scrutiny and always prepared to meet our opponents in open debate on a public platform anywhere of their choosing.

And it is not just extreme left-wing factions that avoid justifying themselves to the general public. Not so long ago, on the BBC's On the Record programme, in which she was seen holding a 'cyber-surgery' with schoolchildren, South Luton Labour MP Margaret Moran spoke about the need for 'MPs to have a two-way dialogue with their constituents' but at the same time has turned down three invitations from the Luton branch of the Democracy Movement, the membership of which must undoubtedly include peopl e from her own constituency, to participate in a public debate on Britain's relationship with Europe - even though she was given the option of not only naming the date but also choosing the chairman !

Nothing surprising about that, however. It's one thing lecturing to schoolchildren but an entirely different ball game when it comes to defending government policy in a face to face meeting with everyday people.

Democratic government, according to Abraham Lincoln in his Gettysburg Address, shou1d be 'government of the peop1e, for the people and by the people'. Trouble is that today there are too many official bodies ranging from third world banana-box dictatorships to civic authorities in civi1ised countries that have their own unique idea of what democracy is all about - and in South Bedfordshire it's 'Find out what the people want then, sure as hell, see they don't get it'.

You can judge a person by their friends – note how our politicians are only interested in foreigners.

The Queensway Hall in Dunstable has long been a popu1ar 1eisure venue having over recent years hosted visits by the Vienna Festival Ballet , military bands and many other such functions as wel1 as a twice-weekly indoor market.

It was hardly surprising, therefore, that the townspeople should have been up in arms over the councils plans to demolish and replace the ha11 with an Asda superstore which very few seemed to want, probably on account of there a1ready being an abundance of such facilities in the area. And in deference to public feeling South Beds Council funded a poll to the tune of £8000 in order to resolve the issue, or so everyone thought.

Not unexpectedly the good folk of Dunstable by an overwhelming majority that they preferred the hall to yet another major outlet for cut price bananas, booze and dog biscuits; only to be informed that the decision to send in the bulldozers had been signed and sealed prior to the poll and irrespective of whatever the result. Why, it might well be asked , should the councillors have spent public money on a poll destined to count for nothing possibly to gain satisfaction from knowing the number of people they would be defecating upon. It all goes to show that the biggest tyrants are often to be found among tinpot tyrants.

A self-described Socialist who is a columnist in a loca1 Bedfordshire newspaper not a11 that ago described 'todays Fascists' as 'operating in dark, dank corners'. By 'Fascists' he was, of course, referring to those of us who are so politically incorrect as give public voice to the silent majority on certain social problems on which outspoken comment is forbidden.

But where does he get dark, dank corners from? Fighting elections, albeit with the limited recourses at our disposal, publishing two excellent journals as well as our recent anti-asylum seeker activities in Dover and elsewhere to public acc1aim could hardly be described as 'operating in dark corners'.

Perhaps he was confusing us with groups 1ike the 'Anti-Nazi League' or the Socialist Worker Party in the dingy back rooms of Camden Town, 'gay bars' and simi1ar rat holes where such slime are usually to be found.

Twice during the past year prominent actresses were asked in a Radio Times questionnaire who they would vote for as 'president of the world'. On each occasion their reply was Nelson Mandela.

Is'nt it amazing the number of show business personalities who when asked to name thier favourite personality, who they would like to see running the world, the 1oca1 bingo club or rep1acing Santa Clause all come up with the same answer - Nelson Mandela!

But not a11 that surprising when remembering t h a t they a11 earn their lucrative crust in an industry controlled by neo-Marxists, gays and champagne Socialists where as much as one word out of step with 'political correctness' can snuff out a career overnight.

During Labour's e1ection campaign and at their party conference prior to the general e1ection the Union Jack was much in evidence, but has since become most noticeable by it's absence. And at the end of last years Labour Conference a large choir of schoolchildren, all resplendent in scarlet blazers, were lined up on stage to lead the closing down sing song. And what were they singing? That's right folks, you've guessed it – the Red Flag. Leopards don't change their spots after all.

And when it comes to the matter of changing spots, no one should think that Ken Livingstone has mellowed any in his o1d age and Londoners will eventually discover, much to their misfortune, that he is sti11 very much the Red Ken who, during his days as chairman of the late Greater London Council, tried to transform London into his very own Soviet Socialist Republic.

Among Ken Livingstone's many mad -brained utterances in the past was his view that the British Army should be disbanded and replaced with a 'workers militia' the function of which, so he said, would be to 'defend the factories'.

If Comrade Ken is still of the same opinion he would find that today, fo11owing the demise of Britain's industrial power, there would be very few factories left to defend, and who , exactly would they have needed to be defended against ? And were he ever to realise this particular pipe dream, where would he look to recruit his 'workers mi1itia'? No first prizes for guessing that one! from among the same kind of scum that desecrated war memorials during the May Day riots.

People as dedicated to a certain ideo1ogy as Livingstone do not alter their outlook. He and his Left Wing clique gained control of the GLC by insidious means and there is no reason to believe that he would not resort to underhand methods to remove any serious opposition on this new governing body for London.

Last time, when Livingstone tried to fleece every home-owner in London with a £30.00 supplementary rate demand to finance a scheme for transport, the government intervened. This time, if he is allowed to have his way, he intends to levy £5.00 off every vehicle owner entering London. He also knows that, unlike last time, he wi1l be dealing with a government that includes a large number of his sympathisers under a gutless Prime Minister.

The move to take us yet another step towards an Orwellian society by passing laws making it an offence to make racist remarks even in private has been abandoned, not o u t of any consideration that people shou1d be able to say and do as they please within their own four walls but because, short of installing TV cameras in every home and public place the length and breadth of 1and, such a scheme would prove unworkable.

But no one should be lulled into any false sense of security, as it only takes a pinko Liberal running to seek 'counselling' after being traumatised by a racist remark to the 'thought police hammering on the door.

So watch out everybody, be careful what you might say over the garden fence or to the milkman, the dustman and the 1ittle old lady collecting for the local church roof fund. Big Brother is still very much around - and listening!

Republican violence returns to London

JUST 24 hours after the Metropolitan Police began a campaign to warn Londoners of the possibility of a new wave of IRA terrorism, Republican sympathisers were involved in a violent attack on Police Officers near London's Euston Station.

The incident occurred on the evening of Tuesday 28th of November outside the Cock Tavern, the venue, three days earlier, of a fund-raising event on behalf of the so-called 'Continuity IRA'. A large group of IRA sympathisers, led by the Neo-Marxist Socialist Workers Party had gathered outside the pub, and police were on hand to control the crowd. Without warning, a group of approximately 20 Neo-Marxists attacked the police lines from behind. The police, initially taken by surprise, quickly took control of the situation and made seven arrests.

A small National Front contingent was on the scene at the time, but none were hurt in the fighting, and none were interfered with, by the police.

A number of Neo-Marxists were bailed to appear at Highbury Corner Magistrates Court on December lst, charged with Public Order offences.

Police named Frank Smith, a 38-year-old bricklayer of 720 High Rd, London Nl2; Stephen Hedley, 32, a railway worker of 66 Ring House, Sage St, Stepney; Paul Stott, a 31-year-old Admin Assistant of 68 Lancress, London Nl; Antony Haughian, an unemployed 39-year-old of 14 Clarendon Road, South Woodford, Essex; and Kevin Brown, a 26-year-old cycle courier who gave his address as 8 Bucks Cross, Gravesend, Kent. Enquiries revealed that this is not actually Mr Brown's home address, although his father was shocked to learn of his son's impending court appearance.

National Front observers were interested to note that immediately after the violence a solicitor was on hand to offer help to those Neo-Marxists who had been arrested: incontravertible proof that the violence was orchestrated.

Whilst it must be accepted that the right to freedom of speech must be extended to all, no matter how offensive their views, there must surely be an arguement for banning the Socialist Workers Party, and their front group, the Anti Nazi League (ANaL). NF observers were able to witness at close hand the terror on the faces of local people caught up in this deeply disturbing episode of political violence.

It must also be noted that, in contravention of the Representation of the Peoples Act, the SWP/ANaL often canvass constituencies in which they are not standing candidates, defaming and slandering official candidates. In the light of the events of 28th November, questions should also be asked about possible fund raising by SWP/ANaL on behalf of the murderers of the IRA.

On a positive note, the attitude of the police towards the Neo-Marxists, and their willingness to provide details of the offenders to the National Front, show that the tide could be turning against the apologists for Marxist genocide.

Big Brother State getting closer!

FIRST we had CCTV cameras on nearly every street corner monitoring our every move or action, now we are faced with an alarming new kind of surveillance system, the mobile phone.

The next generation of mobile phones will make it much easier for the police to carry out covert surveillance of citizens, according to UK civil liberties campaigners.

They warn that the combination of location-revealing technology built into the phone unit and new rights of the police under the UK Regulation of Investigatory Powers (RIP) Act means that the owners of such phones can and will be watched.

They are now advising people that using one of these phones may make it difficult for them to maintain their privacy.

In recognition of the implications, phone companies are working on ways to allow clients to conceal where they are at the touch of a button.

Although existing GSM phones can be used as location devices, they typically only give a fix to within a couple of hundred metres. This accuracy can be improved if the handsets are fitted with special software that can shorten the fix to within fifty metres of their actual position. Newer mobile phone technologies such as GPRS and UMTS have even more accurate location systems built into them. These two new services will take over from the existing GSM service in approximately two years time.

This will undoubtedly mean that this development could be used for more sinister purposes. The RIP act regards the information used to locate phones as "communications data", meaning that the police do not need permission or a warrant to obtain it. This information could then be used by the police to conduct covert surveillance of anyone using such a phone.

This is a very worrying development indeed, and one can be assured that this and other future developments will be used in a concerted effort to try and halt the progress of British Nationalism in years to come. You have been warned!

He who pays the piper calls the tune...

THE scandal of the Hinduja family and their influence over our government and Royal Family give cause for great concern. Mr Srichand Hinduja said "Why should we give money to politicians. We don't just give our money away. On the contrary, I should be paid because I give them ideas." Never has a statement been so clear. Money was given in order to influence government policy.

A whole host of leading politicians and Royals have been given ideas by the Hindujas and similar string-pullers who have cultivated close friendships. This Asian family have managed to wheedle their way into the confidence of the Queen, PrinceCharles, Princess Diana, Edward Heath, John Major, Margaret Thatcher, Bill Clinton, Peter Mandelson, Paddy Ashdown and Tony Blair. There is a common denominator between every one of these leaders: they have all been persuaded to foresake the people they are supposed to represent.Without exception, alien propositioning has caused them to abandon the nation's cause.

Compare the confidence, impudence and arrogance of the Hindujas, Keith Vaz and the Bilderberger, Evelyn de Rothschild, to the signs of helplessness exhibited by many Britons. Lobbying and propositioning by aliens and special interest groups have occurred to such a degree that Parliament now resembles more a horse-trading fair than an assemblage of constitutional government.

Let us not forget that it is the British taxpayer who pays the piper and that it is he who expects to call the tune!

SOUTH AFRICA A PLACE NO LONGER SAFE TO LIVE IN FOR ANNE PATON

(This article was written some time ago. Because of limited space and pressing current issues, it had been put aside. After receiving a letter from the South African Patriot, we have decided to include it in this issue.
We fully appreciate the plight of our white cousins in South Africa and Rhodesia (Zimbabwe) and we should create a closer dialogue between us.)

Alan Paton was a liberal do-gooder schoolmaster, living in South Africa during the late 1940's. He wrote a book called Cry, The Beloved Country which sought to champion the black man and oppose apartheid.

Although he was an unknown author and this was his first book, communists and Zionists eagerly distributed it and translated it into more than twenty languages. It has also become a set book in schools all over the world. Anyone with common sense could see that it was the white man who had created South Africa and made it a prosperous country and that he was the only one capable of making important decisions. The idea that there should be black majority rule was on a par with saying that children should run schools because they outnumber the teachers. However, Zionists and communists who are traditionally anti-white and anti-Christian sieze any chance of removing whites from power and getting us killed off. Alan Paton toured American universities with his anti-white propoganda for which he got paid very well.

Fifty years on, now that black majority rule is in place, commerce has come to a halt and the streets run with blood. Anne Paton,the widow of the dim-witted author, is so terrified of her current situation as a white in South Africa that she is going to flee back to England. That is not a move that has come willingly, as she has lived in South Africa for over thirty-six years and the place has become the homeland that she loves.

However, a whole series of frightening experiences has made it impossible to stay. In her own words, "I am tired of driving with my car windows closed and the doors locked, of being afraid of stopping at red lights, because this is where one can be attacked. I am constantly on the alert in fear of shadows as a group of youths approach". Wherever she meets friends, the conversation usually begins "Did you know that so-and-so has been beaten up or murdered?" She has had her car hijacked at gun point. She has been tied up, mugged and threatened with a knife in her own home.The security gates do not stop assailants. Anne says: "I do not want to be a target for the rest of my life. I want to live in peace, where I do not constantly have to be minding my back – where I can sleep at night".

This is a terrifying state to live in and one has to remember that when the pioneers went to South Africa that the black presence was negligible. As the country became prosperous, Africans moved in rapidly from neighbouring countries to take advantage of the amenities. Our critics should take note because exactly the same thing has been happening in Britain and, unless we take a rapid and firm stand, life here will become just as intolerable.

Nelson Mandela has mellowed with age and worked initially with the whites through the transition period. His observations made him realise just how much the whites were responsible for South African success. Mr Mandela made a public announcement that "He could not improve the lifestyle of the blacks, while numbers were increasing from immigrants coming over the border, demanding work, food and hospital treatment'. The act of whites policing the borders was strongly criticised by the A.N.C., but now the black government, out of necessity, is doing the same job.

However, the government is commited to employ more blacks in demanding jobs, jobs that they were incapable of doing. The result of these changes has been to cause chaos in transport and commerce. South Africa has lost its standing in the world and is fast becoming like the rest of starving, lawless black Africa. Commonsense determines that South Africa should be returned to white rule in co-operation with blacks who have obvious ability. There is no reason why blacks should not occupy some senior positions but this should be strictly on merit.

Anne Paton

If large numbers of professionals leave South Africa then the future looks bleak. Anne Paton highlighted the serious predicament of the whites as she recalled many frightening incidents. One morning she got out of bed and found a man on her landing. Two other men appeared, siezed her around the throat until she lost consciousness. Her mouth was bound with Sellotape, she was then tied up with her hands behind her back and thrown into a spare room. They then took her most valuable property and stole her car for the getaway. This was a replacement car for one that had been stolen from her previously. On another occasion she found men trying to break into her home. She set the alarm off, but still the men continued to smash the window with a hammer. Robbers have come to realise that there is a delay between the alarm going off and help arriving. This gives them time to break in, grab what they can, and run off without detection. This activity is widespread throughout many of the white townships.

This situation has come about since majority rule which has been a disaster for all South Africans. Blacks resort to large scale criminal activity because there is no one to control them, also because there is no work for many, or hope for the future. How can anyone in their right mind support majority rule when it is so clearly seen to be a complete disaster?

NATIONAL FRONT POLICY

Immigration
The National Front would stop all further immigration into Britain, and return all illegal immigrants, asylum seekers or refugees back to the countries they came from. The NF would then use foreign-aid money to fund a programme of phased, humane repatriation of non-whites – as advocated by Bernie Grant, the black Labour MP for Tottenham.

Law and Order
The National Front would bring back the Death Penalty for child murderers, IRA terrorists, violent rapists and drug barons who manufacture, import and distribute vast amounts of drugs. We are sick of soft liberal do-gooders helping the criminal and forgetting the victims. The NF believe that to educate our children to uphold the law is our primary task.

Europe
The National Front would withdraw Britain from the European Community and stop making any further financial contributions.
We believe in co-operation between European nations basis can only be on a voluntary basis – and not as a response to economic blackmail. The NF would restore our family and trading ties with Australia, New Zealand, Canada and South Africa.

Unemployment
The National Front believes it is a scandal that millions are unemployed in the UK,and it is admitted that most of this is in manufacturing industry.
It must follow therefore that as a first step in bringing down unemployment figures we reduce the importation of foreign manufactured goods.

Northern Ireland
The mayhem in Ulster stems from the cowardly failure of succesive British governments to accept that terrorism in pursuit of political objectives must be dealt with harshly. Britain must stop pussyfooting around and take out all IRA terrorists and their allies by a 'shoot to kill' policy.
It must be made clear to all:Ulster is part of Britain and always will be.

National Health
The National Front would provide an entirely free National Health Service, and would abolish prescription charges.We would stop the practice of foreigners coming over and using our NHS for free.
We would give nurses decent working conditions and wages to match. It would be possible to fund the NHS adequetely if money was not squandered elswhere. (For a start we would scrap the Race Relations Industry.)
We would promote physical exercise, improved diet and the avoidance of harmful habits.

The Environment
The National Front believes two of the worst dangers to our environment are the destruction of Britain's countryside for building purposes and the hideous disfigurement of our towns and cities by development schemes.
Areas designated as Green Belt should not be encroached upon by builders.
These horrors would not occur if we had genuinely democratic local governments who were open and accountable to those they served.The NF advocates stronger laws to prevent the pollution of our air and water.

ASIAN GETS AWAY WITH MURDER

AN ASIAN who recently killed a white student in a road-rage attack has walked free from court. Abdul Janjirker, a Kenyan race community leader, living in High Wycombe chased 17-year-old Gary Allsopp and his young friends in his car for a mile-and-a-half before confronting and stabbing the youth. The slightly-built unarmed youth was no match for the well-built Asian. Mr Janjirker chased the young lads for 1½ miles and was obviously intent on picking a quarrel. The Kenyan had in his possession a Swiss Army knife which he opened and stabbed the boy with. The fact that he had to open the knife to make the attack makes his action premeditated in the eyes of the law. This is a clear case of a miscarriage of justice and the name of the judge concerned seems to have been deliberately left out of the scant public reports. Mr Janirker,who does not deny the murder, said that he had "no memory" of taking his own knife out of his jacket pocket and stabbing young Mr Allsopp in the throat. This is a disgraceful verdict and should not go unchallenged. The Lawrence enquiry has failed to identify the killers and therefore the hype about racial murder is unsubstantiated. This however we believe to be a clear case of racist murder. It is only too evident that the Home Office views the lives of we English as cheap and expendible, in total contrast to their precious immigrants.

Killer Richard Fielding

Unemployed Richard Fielding deliberately set fire to a house causing the deaths of seven people. He got away with murder by claiming diminished responsibility. He will now be detained in a secure hospital indefinately, living in comfort at our expense. Kelly Himpfen, the mother of three of the children who died,said "It just goes to show you can get away with murder." Needless to say the media did not dwell on this story, for the victims were white.

Gangland Britain

CRIME is Britain's biggest growth industry, outstripping large legitimate enterprises. Organised crime generates an estimated £50 billion a year — £50 billion pounds worth of illegal arms dealing, drugs and raids. This does not include the lucrative racket of dealing in illegal immigration. Most of those taking part in this type of organised crime are themselves immigrants.

We still have the mainly London-based family gangsters, but the police now have to deal with a much larger and even more ruthless set of criminals who have arrived from abroad. Cypriots, Turks and Kurds are responsible for 90% of the heroin imported into the U.K. Chinese Snakehead gangs are involved in illegal immigration to a large extent as well as drugs. The Yardies, mainly Jamaicans, are more in evidence due to their street shootings and violence. Most of these particular criminals are recent arrivals, they have come over from America where the authorities have had a clampdown. Britain world-wide is seen as a soft touch. The Chinese Triads also use our streets to settle scores by killing in broad daylight. Adding to our problems we have numerous foreign terror gangs who are building up here, including Muslim and Sikh extremists.

There is clearly only one way to make Britain civilised again that is to deport all of this riff-raff back where it came from. Our English-hating Home Secretary may rant about football hooliganism and take steps to confiscate England supporters' passports, but we hear nothing from him about those who are turning our country into a gangland battlefield.

Sanity and Democracy alive in Switzerland

IN THE town of Emmen in Switzerland the public won the right to decide the fate of immigrants claiming citizenship by holding a ballot. The result of the voting showed overwhelminly that the immigrants were not wanted and that they would have to return to their country of origin. The far-right hope that this will become normal practice throughout Switzerland.

Last year, voters in Emmen won the right from central government to make decisions at local level on national issues under Switzerland's system of devolved government.

The Communists,who on this occasion lost the race issue, say "The excercise panders to the base instincts of people worried about their jobs and their own identities". Exactly! And you wonder how anyone could possibly disagree with the people of Emmen.

A spokesman for an anti-racist group, SOS Racisme,said, "It is a terrible thing that has happened, it would be even more terrible if it spread to the bigger cities".

Perhaps we should be demanding ballots at local level on national issues in England.

The National Women's Front

THE National Women's Front has great potential and at least every woman with young children should join. Traditionally mothers spent a great deal of their time with their offspring, imparting ideas that had been passed down for generations. Since the sixties mothers and children have been parted for long periods. At the beginning there was a marked difference in behavior between those who had parental supervision and those who did not. The latter generally were poorer achievers and often in trouble. They were known as latch-key-kids. Our enemies had begun to take advantage of our unprotected children and set about putting rebellious ideas into their minds. Rebellion was made to appear attractive and within a very short time the "generation gap" appeared. While in front of the television, at the cinema or often even in school, a diet of Anti-white-civilisation was fed to them. We cannot be with our children all of the time, but by uniting together we can reenforce the right healthy ideas and spend some of our time in a more worthwhile way.

We also have beautiful 2001 calendars available, featuring excellent illustrations of Aryan women and children. They are only £5.50 plus 50p p&p. All profits will be directed towards the cost of producing anti-paedophile leaflets. If any branch is planning on doing an anti-paedophile campaign, we may be able to assist with the cost of leaflets. Contact us as soon as possible.

Michelle

Michelle is doing a very important job and deserves your support. She informs me that the cost of the NWF magazine New Dawn will have to be increased to £2.00, but even so it is a first-class periodical and well worth it. I urge all of you ladies and your friends to join the National Womens Front. The address is: PO Box 23530, Plaistow, London E13 OEG.
